Boy Farmers Off For Davis Convention

Yesterday morning a party of High School boys in charge of C. E. York, agriculture instructor, left for a three days convention of boy farmers being held at the Davis farm school this week.

The convention is given for prize winners in the different branches of farm production as a partial recognition for their efforts and success.

Roy Bartholomew and Rudolph Hoerler were among the 1918 winners, but as no convention was held that year because of the strenuous war work, these boys are in attendance at this one which is a combined affair for both years, they having won the potato contest.

The other winners are Vincent Lopes and Emil Mrak in the pig contest, Mark Smith, Ralph Millard and Lloyd Malech in the potato contest for 1919.

The contests were limited to High school boys this year, but the plan is to extend the work to take in older grammar school boys next year covering a possible territory of 8 or 10 school districts in this part of the county. The local work and the expansion plans are in charge of Mr. York. The entire party went up in the F. K. Bartholomew auto.

Preserve The Native Trees And Shrubs

"Arboreal" afternoon brought a large number of ladies together Monday at the library. The committee had arranged for representatives of the Outdoor Art League to be present, and Mrs. Nicholas Bowden, Mrs. David Burnett and Miss Florence Clayton responded to the invitation.

They presented a number of very interesting matters, the one of chief interest to the members of the club being the prospective paying of the Dry Creek Road for which the surveying has already been done. The preservation of the beauties of the road with the trees and shrubbery on its banks is a matter of great import to all lovers of natural beauty, and this being one of the scenic spots in our near neighborhood all of us should be interested in keeping it so. A committee was appointed to draw up a resolution to be presented to the Supervisors asking them to exercise their authority in preserving these attractions.

An animated discussion followed and a bureau of exchange for seeds and bulbs arranged. Expressions of pleasure over the success of the program were heard on all sides after the adjournment.

Mr. H. Nevius, who has spent a year in southwestern Missouri with his daughter, has returned to Campbell, where he has a home on Keane Ave. Mr. Nevius was in very poor health when he left here, but returned much improved.

Topics In Brief

JIFFY JELL: There are so many products derived from gelatine, each called "the best", that it is fair puzzling to tell what's what. The special claim for merit in Jiffy Jell is that the flavoring is provided in a separate container, a bottle, which permits the flavoring to be added as the last step in process of preparation. Thus none of the flavor need be lost thru evaporation due to heat. The packages sell 2 for 25c.

ELKHORN! PIMENTO CHEESE has the advantage that it cannot mould, being in a can, and so the housewife may have a can or two always on hand for any possible need, with no occasion to worry about keeping qualities. The cheese will be perfectly good until the can is opened, when, of course, it should be used within a day or two. The price is 20c.

CANNED STRING BEANS, Lake County pack, have just arrived in stock. Lake County is to string beans what Santa Clara Valley is to prunes -- the climate and the soil make a top grade product. Please don't forget to add a trial can of these string beans to your next order. 20c a can.

MISSIONARY BLAMES CHRISTIANS—"WHAT WOULD JESUS DO?"

Cleveland.—Woon Hong Lyuh, representing the Korean Christian union in America, says the Japanese are still dominant in Korea due to the insistence of the counsel of Christians there on passive resistance in proclaiming independence last March. Lyuh is a graduate of Wooster college and is here as a guest of Mrs. S. F. Moore who was a missionary in Korea.

"All faiths in Korea," he said, "including the 500,000 Christians, united with the 20,000,000 inhabitants to depose Japanese rule. Force of arms was demanded but the Christians insisted on a fight on principles only and the republic was declared by peaceful demonstrations."

"Japan at once instituted a reign of terror that drove the republican officers to China and resulted in the death of 10,000 and imprisonment of 20,000."

Customs Men Organize.

NEGRO PLOT TO KILL WHITES DISCOVERED IN SOUTH

Elaine, Ark.—Discovery of what is believed to have been a widespread plot on the part of organized negroes for a general killing of whites in this locality and possibly in other parts of the South led officials to tighten up on emergency measures and redouble their efforts to apprehend leaders of the alleged organization who are still uncaught.

The existence of the supposed conspiracy was brought to light by the committee of seven appointed by civil and military authorities following the race disorders here last week through the questioning of negro prisoners.

According to committee members the negro captives readily revealed to them the inner workings of the plan. Monday, the negroes declare, was the date set for the uprising. Women are said to have been members of the organization, which the authorities say was known as the Progressive Farmers' and Household Union of America.

Twenty-one white planters in this district, according to the confessions, had been singled out to be killed first. The killing of the 21, it was asserted, was to be followed immediately by a general massacre of whites, after which the negroes were to take over the land and till it.

Efforts are being made to connect white men with the propaganda to arouse the negroes and incite them to killing the white residents.

200,000 CHILDREN

HOMELESS, FOODLESS

Warsaw.—On their entry into the district of Vladimir, just freed from the enemy by the victorious advance of General Haller's troops, American Red Cross officers found a population of 200,000 children practically foodless and in clothing that was little better than rags.

Of the 50,000 children in Vladimir, it was reported that 5000 were complete orphans, having neither father nor mother. To care for such a large number there is but one orphan asylum capable of accommodating 100 children.

As a temporary measure, the Red Cross has sent several cars of supplies to Vladimir. Another train was dispatched to the Haleb districts, where the conditions of the population are equally severe. Here were found eighty villages on the old German-Russian battle line. Many of them had been totally destroyed. Refugees from Russia augmented the normal population, and to take care of them the Red Cross sent to Haleb eighty bales of clothing.

BOCHE SKIPPER'S POOR SPELLING HIS UNDOING

Exciting Incident in the Life of a Raider Patrol of British Navy.

SINKING OF THE TURRITELLA

Germans Nearly Fooled the English but Were Betrayed When They Spelled
Aden With a "T"—Destroyed
the Vessel Themselves.

London.—Little by little the world is learning some of the romance and excitement that at times punctuated the rather prosaic lives of the men who patrolled the seas and kept the ocean traffic lanes open for allied shipping. The dangers that lurked in the Arabian seas and Indian ocean have been known in a general way from the too frequent admiralty reports of ships sunk there by submarines and raiders. An episode in the life of a raider patrol is told by a correspondent of the London Times, as follows:

At the beginning of March, 1917, I was in H. M. S. — on the Aden patrol—a dull job, as all patrolling jobs are. But we did not pretend to be pining for the more thrilling occupation of searching for the German raider Wolf. Her guns could out-range the guns of our little ship, so effectually, that, had we met her, we should probably have been blown out of the sea before we could put a shot anywhere near her, and, frankly, we had no great desire to meet her.

About 10 o'clock one evening a signalman appeared at the wardroom door with a message from the bridge, "From the officer of the watch, sir. Ship on the starboard bow showing no lights."

"Probably an old tramp scared out of his wits by these yarns about the Wolf," suggested someone.

"All these merchantmen are going about without lights nowadays." The captain and the navigator went up to the bridge, where they were presently joined by the first lieutenant. The moon was nearly full, casting a white track across the dark blue carpet of the sea. It was the kind of night that brings back memories of a Thames regatta, of lounging in a well-cushioned punt, and listening to a good band. To connect such a night with German raiders, guns, mines and torpedoes was quite impossible; the whole setting was entirely wrong.

The mysterious ship was now two points on our port bow, and about three miles ahead. A thick volume of smoke pouring from her funnel suggested that she was in a hurry, or, at all events, was not disposed to be sociable with us. We had been ambulating along comfortably at eight knots; the order was given to increase to ten. The shutter of our signal lamp began to rattle.

"What ship is that?"

Claimed British Registry.

The signalman had to repeat the question twice before he evoked an answer.

"Toritella," was the belated reply. "What nationality?" we asked promptly.

"British," was the answer.

"What are your signal letters?" was our next question.

"J. F. K. L.," came the answer. We hunted up the name in Lloyd's list, but without success.

"Are you sure you have got his name right, signalman? Ask him again."

"What is your name?" asked the patient signalman. This time the mysterious stranger expanded volubly.

"Turrutella, London. Runs for British admiralty. Port Said for orders."

What manner of ship was this, who spelled her name at one time with an

O and one R, and at another time with a U and two R's? And that expression, "Runs for British admiralty." Would an English merchant skipper talk about the British admiralty. Would he not say, "Under admiralty charter," or some such phrase? The signal lamp of the unknown vessel began to scintillate again.

"Who are you?" ran the simple message.

There was certainly a directness about the question suggesting a bluff old English skipper.

"A British man-of-war," was our answer. A little later we followed it up by a peremptory order to the stranger to stop. When the signal lamp began to flicker again, it seemed to show just a trifle of hesitation.

Night of Suspense.

His meaning was plain enough. We could have ordered him to stop when we first sighted him, when we were within range of the shore batteries, and where there were British men-of-war lying just round the corner inside the harbor. He evidently suspected us of being the German raider. All these merchantmen were in a state of high nervous tension. The mere fact of being ordered to stop was enough to make him run as hard as he could. It was clear that we could not overhaul him. The only question was, had we sufficient grounds of suspicion to justify us in taking steps to compel him to stop? No one cares to go to the length of firing on a strange merchantman in the middle of the night unless there are grave reasons for doing so. And if this fellow was not a British merchantman, as he professed, what else could he be? He might be the Wolf? It was at least a possibility. In that case the prospect of an engagement opened up visions of a glorious death, but little else.

Wireless messages were sent to the other ships of the patrol, stating the circumstances, and the position, course and speed. The first watch was over. The officer who had been relieved had dropped into the wardroom for a cigarette before turning in. As he lighted up he remarked: "I should like to get hold of that old merchant skipper and give him a piece of my mind."

"The question," observed one of the pensive members of the mess, "is whether he would understand your language. They are not all good linguists."

It was an observation which clearly needed amplifying.

"If you were an English skipper under the impression that you were being chased by a German raider, would you expect him to go on chasing you for two hours without firing?"

The officer just relieved from the bridge became meditative.

Spelled Aden with a "T."

"There was something funny," he said, "even about that last signal asking us why we did not stop him at Aden. The signalman tells me that he first spelled Aden with a 't' and then corrected it."

Even the technicalities of a flag-wagger may be fraught with importance. When a messenger came down from the bridge to say that the ship on the port bow seemed to be drawing away from us, the captain sent back a message to the officer of the watch to put on the best speed he could. The little ship began to throb with her exertions, while her funnel grew red-hot.

Just before the morning watch the moon went down, and darkness fell upon the face of the water. It was evident that we had gained very little, if at all, on the stranger. The captain, leaning over the bridge rail, sang out for the signalman.

"Make 'If you do not stop I shall fire.'"

"Ay, ay, sir."

"If you do not stop I shall fire."

The signalman closed his shutter on the final word with a snap. There followed a few minutes of suspense. Then came the answer.

"I am stopping now."

"Number One, tell them to stand by the searchlight," said the captain to the first lieutenant. "Signalman, tell him to place his navigation lights."

Very promptly in response to the signal the lights appeared upon the strange ship.

"Now make, 'Remain where you are. I will board you at daylight.'"

What the Searchlight Revealed.

When the distance between the ships had been reduced to about a mile the order was given to switch on the searchlight. The great white streak shot across the sea until it settled on the mysterious craft. In large letters across her stern ran the legend, "Turrutella, London."

"I believe I have been fooled after all," said the captain to himself. The searchlight also revealed a party shoveling off in a boat, presumably containing the irate skipper, wanting to know what the blank blank all this business meant, for in the eastern waters they were not accustomed to it. Presently there came a strange voice through a megaphone from the stranger's bridge: "Switch off that damned searchlight."

"He seems to be getting a bit ratty. Shall I switch off?"

The order was given, and darkness prevailed once more. Some minutes later the eastern sky began to glow, feebly at first, casting a kind of light over the face of the sea—a mere glimmer in which objects appeared without shape. Out of this gloom there arose such a babel of sound as brought us all to the ship's side. Dimly we could discern two boats, one on the port and one on the starboard side of us, both crowded with occupants, who were jabbering in some strange tongue like a lot of excited monkeys.

Germans Sank Their Own Ship.

Just as we came aboard of the strange ship we saw a cloud of smoke shoot up from her, which was followed by the heavy thud of an explosion. Next moment there came another heavy thud, and we saw that the Turrutella was beginning to sink by the head. We steamed past her and began to circle round her at a respectful distance, for ships which carry explosives may carry them in the form of torpedoes. Gradually the eastern sky began to flush red; the hue was reflected by the sea, until one could have fancied that the stricken ship was staining the waters with her blood. And then we saw a third boat rowing away from the wreck in the direction of the other two. We swung round to return and pick them up.

As we approached the first two boats we realized why we had failed to understand the language. They were full of Chinamen all talking at once, in a state of hysterical agitation. We waited eagerly for the third boat. As it drew up alongside one gangway two officers stepped briskly up the ladder, and were followed by twenty-six men, each wearing a round blue cap with two black ribbons falling down behind. Across the front of the cap ribbon was printed in gold letters "Kaiserliche Marine." We had not been fooled after all.

The Turrutella's Story.

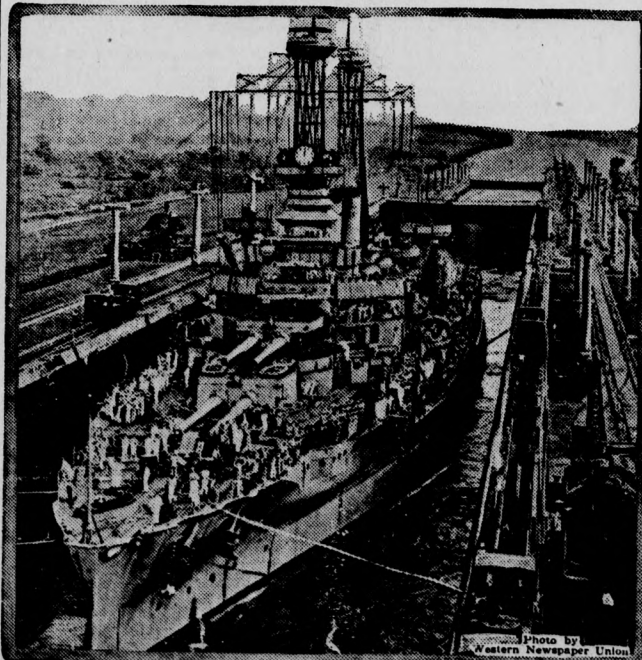

The story of the Turrutella is briefly this. She had been captured from the Germans early in the war. In February, 1917, she set out from Shanghai with a Chinese crew and British officers; she put into Rangoon to pick up cargo, and again into Colombo, where she spent some days loading up. She left Colombo on Feb. 23, 1917, and four days later walked straight into the jaws of the Wolf. Her British officers and men were taken aboard the raider as prisoners, but the Chinamen remained in her. A German prize crew then took possession of her; she was loaded up with mines, and sent off to Aden to lay her eggs just outside the harbor. Her subsequent movements had all been carefully planned to fit in with the program revealed by the ship's papers. On March 6 she was due in Prim, where she intended to call, looking as innocent as a lamb, with her Chinese crew on the upper deck and her German ratings stowed below. Thence she was to proceed to the Red sea to lay more mines, and afterward to rejoin the Wolf at a rendezvous.

Could she have carried out this program if she had not happened to fall in with us? There was at least a sporting chance. Her second officer spoke English as fluently as his own language, and without any trace of an accent. He had spent eight years in our merchant service, and had the manners and bearing of an English officer. But the weak spot in the company was evidently the signalman. That signal "Why did you not stop me when I was passing Aden?" was brilliant. It showed real genius. But the signalman completely ruined it by spelling Aden with a "t."

"Silk" Made From Sawdust.

New York.—Experiments conducted by the New York state college of forestry have resulted in the production from sawdust of "silk" which "looks like silk, feels like silk, but is cheaper than silk." Silk stockings, shirtwaist materials and other articles have been produced from the sawdust yarns.

"There is a great deal of finish to that man's work."

Sure! High Heels

Cause Corns But

Who Cares Now

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.—Adv.

NAME "BAYER" MEANS ASPIRIN IS GENUINE

For Toothache, Neuralgia, Pain, Colds, Headache!

You want relief—quickly and safely! Then insist on "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," stamped with the "Bayer Cross."

The name "Bayer" means you are getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years, and proved safe by millions of people.

For a few cents you can get a handy tin box of genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," containing twelve tablets. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacid-diesters of Salicylicacid.

HOW TO AVOID BACKACHE AND NERVOUSNESS

Told by Mrs. Lynch From Own Experience.

Providence, R. I.—"I was all run down in health, was nervous, had headaches, my back ached all the time. I was tired and had no ambition for anything. I had taken a number of medicines which did me no good. One day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for women, so I tried it. My nervousness and backache and headaches disappeared. I gained in weight and feel fine, so I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman who is suffering as I was."—Mrs. ADELIN E. LYNCH, 100 Plain St., Providence, R. I.

Backache and nervousness are symptoms of nature's warnings, which indicate a functional disturbance or an unhealthy condition which often develops into a more serious ailment.

Women in this condition should not continue to drag along without help, but profit by Mrs. Lynch's experience, and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK. UGH!

"Dodson's Liver Tone" better than calomel and can not salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quick silver. Calomel is dangerous. I craves into sour bile like dynamite cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel, just remember that your druggist sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.—Adv.

The date for the mass meeting in regard to the disposal of the old school house has been set for Friday evening, Oct. 31. Bear that date in mind.

A Fellowship supper will be held at the Congregational church Friday, Oct. 24th at 6 o'clock to which all members of the congregation are invited. Bring sandwiches and a dish for the table.

Frank Howard, who recently received his discharge from an army hospital corps, is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Higbie. Mr. Howard was here for some weeks last spring recuperating from a severe illness.

W.C.T.U. Notes

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Whitman, with the president, Mrs. Baldwin, in the chair. A letter from Hon. Edwin Grant giving a comprehensive statement of the work of the State Law Enforcement and Protective League was read.

Students in the 7th and 8th grades of Campbell grammar school were offered prizes of $3.00 each for the best essays on the effects of alcohol and tobacco. It was also voted to furnish scientific leaflets gratis as aids to the pupils in writing their essays. Mrs. Baldwin was appointed to see Mr. Bohnett and ask his co-operation. Campbell Union voted to pledge $5.00 toward state work.

It was also decided to send for five "Lincoln Posters on Law Enforcement." A letter from state headquarters regarding the work of Americanization was read and discussed. The treasurer reported 18 new members gained since last March. Alternates elected to state convention were Mrs. Catherine Farley, Miss Luella Caldwell, Mrs. Belle Richter.

An interesting letter from Washington, D.C. quoted Attorney General Palmer as saying he believed war prohibition cannot end until the Peace Treaty is ratified. "The state of war does not end until the treaty is ratified." A bill has been passed by both House and Senate establishing one-half of one per cent as the maximum alcoholic content of beverages. Mrs. C. J. McMurray, county superintendent of Mothers' Meetings, was invited to hold a meeting in the interest of her department on Nov. 12. A letter expressive of sympathy was sent to Mrs. Ash.

The next meeting will be with Miss Marshman when delegates to state convention will report. Refreshments will be served and an offering taken for the good of the cause.

WHEREAS everyone probably is ready to believe that the Stanford trustees may find themselves absolutely in need of greater funds with which to run the university, it does seem an injustice to the students now registered to announce a tuition fee of $40 per quarter to take effect Jan. 1st. Certainly it is a far cry from the intention of its founder, whose history was published last winter in the Call by the curator of the museum, Harry C. Peterson, and who meant it to be an institution available to all classes.

In any event the payment should not be demanded for the year 1919-20, necessitating, as it will, that some students finish the year in debt, demanding great sacrifices of others, and possibly making it compulsory for some to leave at the January recess.

The Daily Palo Alto gives voice to the protests of the students and similar ones are heard on all sides from parents and the public in general, and it would seem that the united clamor might be of some avail.

FOUND: A WISE OLD HEAD in Campbell who has discovered that a weekly newspaper at $1.50 per year is an absolute graft. He stopped his home paper because he had read in the sheet from "Pondunk Corners" that such was classed as a graft and ye editor was waxing fabulously wealthy on his $1.50 per. Scandalous profiteering, a pure graft! It is to laugh. This same editor is paying as much for his groceries and meat as same complainant, because the H. C. L. has no sympathy for editors.

They must live, move and have their being in this day of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. We enjoy this old globe and this particular spot on it about as much as anyone we've met and have a right to expect several more years of it—even if an occasional kill-joy does cross our path.

Locals and Personals

For Sale: Fine residence property on Santa Clara Road at Kennedy Ave. J. E. Palmer.

Miss Alice Duncan was home from Ripon to spend the week-end with the hill-family.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Eckles greeted a number of their friends in Campbell Sunday while here at church.

Several members of the local C. E. are planning to attend the county convention in San Jose today, Saturday and Sunday.

Robert Giles, a nephew of Mrs. R. W. Kennedy, is visiting his relatives here this week. Mr. Giles has just returned from service in France and is spending a few days here before going to his home at Redding.

Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Carpenter with some friends spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Alexander in their new home and were delighted with it. The Alexanders are having the house newly decorated and they hope soon to be settled when they will be glad to welcome their friends.

The delegates from the local church of the Northern California Conference of Congregational churches in session this week at San Francisco are Mesdames Ellen R. Smith, Helen Dodge, and Jas. Hyatt. The alternates are Messrs. Jas. Hyatt, S. G. Nelson and A. B. Townsend.

Edgar Kennedy wrote his mother that he would be home the first of next month. Altho he had a new position in the office he would be very glad to get his discharge. All camouflage. He walked in on the family yesterday as independent as if he owned the place. Guess he does at that, about present writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Eddy, and children, Miss Eley and Donald, of Minneapolis, arrived last week to spend the winter in our delightful climate with their cousin, M. E. Purmort and family. Mrs. H. M. Crawshaw and son, Richard, also of Minneapolis came with them, but expect to remain only a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Eddy are already in love with the country and doubtless will later come to this state to live.

Dr. Tully C. Knoles will speak at an open meeting of the Country Woman's Club on Monday evening, Oct. 27, in the parlors of the Methodist church. Dr. Knoles is the president of the College of Pacific of which he has been the head since last April, and is an able speaker. His subject on this occasion is "Bolshevism," a topic to which he has given considerable attention and study. A general invitation is extended to both the men and women of this community to be present.

Family Reunion

A real family reunion was enjoyed at Woodside Sunday when the members of the Cutting families motored there to spend the day with Rev. B. St. John. The entire party attended church there then went to a camp in the redwoods near by to enjoy their Sunday dinner.

Those attending from here were Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Cutting and the families of W. C. Cutting, F. H. Cutting, Theo. Cutting, and C. B. Cutting, Dr. J. A. Cutting and son, Arthur, Mrs. White. Their attendance more than doubled the church attendance at Woodside and left quite a vacancy in the local Congregational church.

Y.W.C.A Drive Begins Next Week

"We believe in girls every where and we work for the girls every where."

That is the slogan adopted for the Y. W. C. A. Campaign which will be carried on all over the United States during the next three months for the purpose of collecting all funds necessary for the conduct of local, national and international work of the organization. Campaigns throughout California will be completed within the next two months. Vallejo is already almost over the top with a quota of $15,000. Fresno is the next city in this state to open its campaign with a quota of $65,000, a joint campaign for the erection of new Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. buildings and to meet the local, national and international expenses of operation.

San Jose Campaign.

The campaign in San Jose will open with a big dinner to be held in the Y. W. C. A. building, corner of San Antonio and Second streets, on Saturday evening, October 25th. At this dinner, Miss Harriet Taylor, who had charge of all of the Y. W. C. A. work in Europe, will speak on the great post-war program of the Y. W. C. A., and Miss Holmquist who was asked by the United States Government to assist in a survey of the conditions of women in industry in the country, will have an intensely interesting story to tell about the present needs of such work as the Y. W. C. A. is now carrying on. These two speakers are in the West for just one week while attending the conferences in San Francisco on October 25th, 26th, 27th.

Monkeys Cleverly Trapped.

Monkey hunters walk about in boots, which they take off in sight of the monkeys and plaster the insoles with gum. The imitative animals, when the coast is clear, come down from the trees and put on the boots. Thus they are trapped, for they can no longer climb.
